HALF A MAN.

When a man is sick and can only work half the time he is practically half a man. It requires his whole physical energy to do half a man's work.

In general the weak run down condition which cuts the strength and energy in half is due to disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. You could not expect a half starved man to work more than half the time. The condition of the man with weak stomach is that of the half starved man. He is weak through lack of nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nutrition of the body and restores the strength.

"I had stomach trouble from birth," writes Mr. William Beaman, of Washington, D. C. "I suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 35 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Every thing I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 37 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

TARA'S HILL TO BE SOLD.

Tara's Hill, in the county of Meath, Ireland, where generations of Irish kings held their seat; where Erin's legends and their lords held stately revelry in Tara's Hall; where Ireland's stones of destiny, the Lia Fail, moss crown and green as the isle itself, still points to the noonday sun and the quivering stars; where Tom Moore dreamed and sang of the music of harps that told of the kingdom's ancient glory—Tara's Hill, with all the relics so closely associated with Irish history and story, is for sale.

Tara's Hill, once the capital of Ireland, is now a prosaic farm. The Lia Fail, famed in story, still marks the summit. The famous harp quelling ball, "The House of a Thousand Soldiers," capable of smiting a thousand of Ireland's nobles and their beauties at the banquet board, is there, and in it is the great stone chair on which the proud O'Neals and Brian Boru and his descendants sat with golden crowns on their heads.

But the industrious tiller of the soil has sought to make crops grow where 1,500 years ago stood Ireland's crowning glory. The music of the harp has died so long since that its echoes cannot stir the memory of the oldest who live on Tara's Hill. The tombs of the Irish warriors who fell in the battle against the barbarian invaders have long since been plowed over, and replaced so many, many times that the dust of those who sleep beneath has been unscrubbed and scattered to the winds.

The Lia Fail, which marks the Cromwellian grave, or the grave of warriors, is the most ancient and famous relic in Ireland, and almost as old as Tara's Hill. It was here that Lowry, the King of Tara, sat at the time of St. Patrick's arrival. Here all the magnificence of the ancient kingdom was displayed. It was a huge excavation, 360 feet long and 40 feet wide. In it were held the greatest assemblages of that ancient time, and all the pomp and glory of the whole kingdom was shown there.

The farm which is now offered for sale is on the very summit of the hill. It contains the ruined half the Lia Fail, the "Cromwellian Grave," and the King's chair. No more precious relics of Irish history exist, and yet they'll go with the farm. Barley and potatoes may be grown over the graves of the soldiers, and the imperishable stone remains intact, but beyond a topographical survey of the site of the ancient city which has been preserved in the archives of Dublin, all memory of Ireland's ancient capital may soon vanish.

Tara's Hill, as it now exists, shows clearly the remains of the ancient city, although it has been deserted for almost fifteen centuries. The old manuscript in Ireland, preserved in Dublin, was written there, and is a careful description of Tara, accompanied by a rude map, showing monuments, fairs, roads and other marks which can yet be fairly discerned. The most unmistakable of all the signs of the ancient city, however, are the Lia Fail and the Tara Hall, with the King's chair.

The plot may even now have faced the old lines of these roads and the fort. If not, the advertisement of the historic spot for sale as a farm indicates that with Ireland's faded glory the relics of her strength must soon disappear.

X-RAYS CURE FOR CANCER.

Dr. John E. Gilman, professor in the Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, believes he has discovered in the Roentgen rays a cure for cancer.

"We are in the beginning of an era when cancer will have no terrors. In the last year and a half I have treated over 50 cases of cancer, including many forms of the disease, and have yet failed to find a single one that would not yield readily," he says in an interview. "I am of the belief that the disease can in the future be broken down quickly and surely, even when treatment does not begin before the disease is well advanced."

Dr. Gilman's method is simple. The patient is given remedies which will supply material needed for the rebuilding of the destroyed tissue, and he is subjected to the influence of the X-rays every day for a few weeks or months, as the case may be, in order that the cancer may be destroyed.

"The Roentgen rays," said Dr. Gilman, "are of great power in the destruction of disease germs. I have found them of great value in killing the germs of tuberculosis. The X rays penetrate and electricity through the cancer and destroys the germs, at the same time stimulating the activity of the starved parts. I have thus far lost only one patient whom I have treated for cancer by the aid of rays, and that one died of weakness caused by her inability to take nourishment."

One case Dr. Gilman is treating is that of a Nebraska ranchman. The whole left side of his face was affected by the cancer. The growth pressed down the base of the brain so as to effect his memory, his left eye was closed and his nose forced sideways. There was danger that at any moment the walls of

Your word and your money are one and the same at the Hecht stores. Our policy recognizes all alike; whether you are mistress of a mansion, or mistress of a kitchen, the banker or the laborer, the same courteous, broad-minded, impartial attention is accorded you. Don't have the least hesitancy about charging whatever you buy. After you have made your purchases, and you know the prices, then it is the time to tell the sales person to "have it charged." Just keep in mind that you are only one in a thousand daily taking advantage of this most liberal of credit systems. Payments will in every case be made to suit your convenience—whether weekly, semi monthly or monthly.

At $12.50--Ladies' Suits.

There's reason enough for the greatly increased volume of business at this ladies' ready-to-wear department—for it has never been so splendidly able to serve you, and serve you to your abundant satisfaction.

Just now most of the selling emphasis is placed on the big showing of the $12.50 Tailor-made Suits—and at the price we can assure you that better values and more high-class garments never came from the tailor's hands. There's a considerable display of styles, fabrics and colors—Eton and long coat effects—$12.50.

There's an unequalled showing of Ladies' suits in every style, grade and season $12.50 to $1.50 and more—the finest imported costumes vying with the very stylish productions of our own best makers.

A Rush for Raglans.

Surprising what a run the Raglans are having, and the production is being made good that the smartest of the season's wraps and the wrap which has the decided advantage of fashion would be the Raglan. They're here in the loose back and half tight styles and in all the colors—tan, Oxford and blue—all sizes, and high grade in every respect; $12.50 is the prevailing price for such a garment; the price here is $12.50.

Women's Skirts, Better-than-ever Showing.

We might write columns about the skirt department, and then tell that that was story. There's a word of meaning in the volume of sales—shows the popularity of the Hecht-made and Hecht-styled skirts, and shows you just how greatly below the usual level are the prices. If you're the buying of a skirt in mind you'll appreciate what we can show you.
